Casino Night Q & A:

1. How many prizes? Ideas? How are prizes won?
   The number of prizes is up to us. He said 2 or 3, but that seems a bit too few to me. He said a lot of groups do gift cards, but fundraisers often times do have handcrafted items. Prizes are won by raffle. Tickets plus lucky bucks are distributed at the door. People can trade their lucky bucks for more raffle tickets. At the end the bucks each person has are also converted to raffle tickets.

2. Do we need permits?
   No, with emphasis on not mentioning the word gambling in conjunction with the event. It is games and a fundraiser for fun.

3. What do the volunteers need to know? Is training available?
   The volunteers need to know how to deal blackjack and poker. The best thing is to practice before the event. They can give brief on-site training that night, but setup time is also involved with that.

4. What kind of help and support?
   Someone will be there as the pit boss and help in whatever way possible.

5. Tickets: We make up our own tickets. They will have the lucky bucks and the raffle tickets.

6. Does the 6 - 10 dealing time include breakdown?
   It doesn't have to. We can run it for 3 or 4 hours, our choice.

7. How many lucky bucks per ticket? How much for additional bucks?
   This is dependent on how much of a fundraiser we want it to be or are we mainly thinking about fun. If it is intended to be a "fun night", making some $, then they usually give 200 lucky bucks and a couple of raffle tickets at the door. If it is intended more to make $, then give fewer bucks at the door. For additional bucks a suggested donation of $10 for 100 bucks. For the non-players they can trade their lucky bucks for additional raffle tickets.

8. How much help will be needed for setup and breakdown?
   A couple of guys.
